Biography: Dr. Faisal Awartani has been the CEO of Alpha International since its inception in 2001. He is highly experienced in designing and implementing market research, socio-economic studies, monitoring and evaluation projects; over the course of his career, Dr. Awartani supervised more than 200 projects in relation to data management, economic growth, policy analysis and reform studies, socio-economic studies, monitoring and evaluation.

Dr. Awartani has a solid record of accomplishment in the area of data analytics and predictive analytics at both the theoretical and practical levels. He worked with various public and private sector organizations locally and regionally on developing predictive analytics models especially with emphasis on the telecom and banking sectors. Dr. Awartani led various market research/informatics and policy analysis studies supporting international organizations that carried out projects in Palestine in the area of socio-economic development such as the World Ban, UN Chemonics International, (USAID), DAI, ARD, CHF (Global Communities), Quartet, etc. Dr. Awartani is currently working at the regional level trying to promote ideas related to data driven decision making among both public sector and private sector organizations using newly established technologies in relation to data analytics, predictive analytics and big data. At the academic level, Dr. Awartani has served as an Assistant Professor of Statistics at Birzeit University in Palestine from 1993-2005. He also served as instructor at American university in Washington DC from 1989 until 1993.

Dr. Awartani earned his PhD in Statistics from American University in Washington DC, (1993), his master's degree in Computer Science from American University in Washington, DC (1988), and a bachelor's degree in Mathematics with distinction from Birzeit University, Palestine (1986).