Abstract: The lecture will briefly describe the area of data science in terms of needed skills and future trends on the demand on data scientists. The talk will give an overview on the links of data science to artificial intelligence. The lecture will broadly talk about innovation trends in data science and artificial intelligence. Another area will be touched upon is big data versus small data and data quality.