

New Generation of Social Scientists in the Arab Region Call for Applications

A one of a kind fellowship program, “New Generation of Social Scientists in the Arab Region” is now ready to accept your applications. We are pleased to invite submissions for the fellowship’s first cycle. Students who are passionate about the social sciences and who are studying at the BA, MA or PhD levels at the partner universities in the Arab region are encouraged to apply for the fellowship. BA students will be eligible even if they are in disciplines and fields outside of the social sciences.

The NewGen fellows will be immersed into a 2-year journey of activities comprising research, training, mentorship, networking and exposure. Together, these activities seek to incubate a new generation of social scientists capable of, and committed to, conducting research for social change, developing and teaching critical approaches to social issues and building new institutions and infrastructures for knowledge production. All program activities will be implemented in partnership with the program’s main partner universities in the region.

For the first program cycle, the program has been launched in 4 countries with 4 main partner universities. In total, students can apply from 11 universities.

The main partner universities for the first cycle of the program are:

Lebanon: Lebanese American University

Palestine: Birzeit University

Egypt: American University in Cairo

Tunisia: Sfax University

In addition to students from the main partner universities, students from the following universities can apply:

Lebanon: Lebanese University, American University of Beirut, University of Balamand, Saint Joseph University

Palestine: Al Najah National University, Al Quds University

Egypt: Cairo University, Alexandria University

The deadline for submission is March 16, 2020.
