Project Name	Spaces of Participation: Topographies of Political and Social Change in Morocco, Egypt and Palestine
Project Summary	Birzeit University Museum is a pioneering art space, which promotes visual cultural practices within the Palestinian community through various exhibitions, training and education programs. The museum's exhibitions program, and in particular its "Cities Exhibition" series, provide the university community and the Palestinian community at large with opportunities to develop non-traditional concepts and perceptions about art practices and cultural production. The exhibitions introduce themes and ideas that deal with the local context through a variety of forms as they empower the local communities with knowledge generated within art practices about the geography and politics of spatial issues.
